SPLENDID RECORD

Made By War Department In Handling Troops.

Question of Ultimate Annexation Bobs Up Often and From Cuban Sources.

OTHER WASHINGTON ITEMS.

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.]

Washington, D. C. Oct. 17.—The showing for the War Department is exceedingly good for the embarkation of troops for Cuban service. According to the statement of the Quartermaster General's office, it has taken just twelve days to get all the troops afloat, the last expedition, having already left Newport News, is probably by this time on Cuban soil. This is the more remarkable in that there was only one transport, the Sumner, available when the emergency occurred. Both Quartermaster General Humphrey and his assistants are very proud of the showing that has been made. If transports had been available when the order was given to move the troops, the entire expedition could have been afloat within one week. As it was, however, steamers had to be chartered and re-fitted for use as transports. In addition to the men that have been sent, amounting altogether to 6000, there has been over 2000 horses shipped beside large quantities of stores and ammunition. It is understood that Newport News will be made the base of supplies as long as it is necessary to retain military control in Cuba.

The question of ultimate annexation comes up much oftener from Cuban sources than the United States officials are willing to discuss it. It is said, unofficially, at the State Department, that there is not only no present intention of annexation, but this country will refuse every opportunity in that direction, and the Cubans must take their chances with another trial of government on their own responsibility.

Officials of the Immigration Department are going on a still hunt for the people whom it is supposed have been evading the alien contract labor law for a long time past in importing English girls to work in the Southern cotton mills. This case was first brought to light by the detention in Washington of a girl who gave her name first as Hilda Barnes and afterward as Hilda Elliott. She said that she was going South to visit relatives and had been deserted in Washington. It afterward developed that she had been in South Carolina for some time and that she was really on her way north, instead of south, when she applied to the police for assistance. The girl's conflicting stories aroused suspicion, and there afterward developed a strong probability of extensive Immigration frauds. Preparations were made to send an inspector to Gaston, N. C., but the case was kept quiet in the belief that premature publication would defeat the ends of justice. One of the Washington papers, however, broke faith in the matter, and as the whole story has now been printed, no harm can be done by referring to it. It is alleged that agents have been working extensively in England attracting young girls to this country with the promise of high wages and good working conditions. It is believed that as many as 1000 have been imported to different points in the south. Once landed here the girls were bitterly deceived, and it is said that the Barnes girl was escaping from the Southern country when her money gave out. Since then money has been sent her in an effort to get her out of the reach of the authorities and put a stop to the investigation, but it is now too late to do this.

Another bad story of Southern cruelty has been laid before the Department of Justice, which has been asked to send a special agent to inquire into labor conditions south of Tampa, Fla. It is claimed that hundreds of men are held there in virtual slavery in the phosphate mines, the turpentine groves and the lumber camps. Most of these men are negroes, but it is said that many of them are white. They are surrounded by armed guards, who do not hesitate to use their rifles at the first attempt to escape, and the residents of this sparsely settled section are afraid to give evidence to the authorities so that the case is rather a hard one to work out. One of the features of the story is that the owners of these slaves are not southern men but that in reality big northern capital is back of the most of the enterprises where this peon labor is used.

Against the Law to Kill Squirrels.

It might be of interest to quite a number of our readers to know the game law on squirrel killing inasmuch as many people are fairly slaying the little creatures now.

Squirrels and rabbits are protected by the act of March 18, 1904, which makes it unlawful to kill them between September 15 and November 15. Section 1940 further protects black and fox squirrels between February 1 and June 15, but it is allowable to kill gray squirrels between those dates for the protection of crops.

WILLIAMS

Nominated For Magistrate in Hartford Justice District.

At a mass convention held at Beaver Dam Saturday, October 6, pursuant to a call issued by the Hartford Magisterial district Republican Committee, Mr. J. H. Williams, of Taylor Mines, was nominated to fill out the unexpired term of Nicholas Barrass.

The convention was called to order by chairman Chester Keown, and Clayton Woodward was elected chairman and Everett Taylor secretary of the meeting.

Nominations for a candidate for Magistrate to be voted for in the coming November election being declared in order, C. M. Barnett placed in nomination Mr. J. H. Williams, of Taylor Mines. There being no other nominations, he was unanimously nominated by a rising vote.

Mr. Williams not being present, on motion, the chair appointed the following committee to notify him of his nomination and secure his acceptance: Sam Stevens, Claude Blankenship and Baker Rhoads.

An account of this convention should have appeared in our last issue, but we were unable to learn whether or not the nominee would accept and make the race. We are informed that Mr. Williams, "Harve," as he is familiarly called, has accepted the nomination and will go in to win. He is a son-in-law of Mr. Barrass, who was elected last year by 105 majority. He is one of the most popular men in the district, and will make a splendid addition to our fiscal court. He lives in a part of the district which should have a member of the court to look after the vast interest in that section of the county.

THE FISCAL COURT

Rescinds Order for Taxation System of Road-Working.

Orders Much Needed Improvements on Court House and Construction of Bridges.

The Fiscal Court adjourned last Saturday after having completed its work. The court made an excellent record, especially in point of time as it usually takes from seven to ten days to transact the business of the October term. As forecasted in our last issue, Mr. Frank Black was elected to the position of almshouse keeper.

The court rescinded the order or recommendation concerning the working of the roads by taxation, which was made at the last January term of the Fiscal Court. It was seen that the present rate of taxes was inadequate to work the roads and meet the other necessary expense and pay off any of the indebtedness, and it was further determined that the law makes no provision for any increase in the rate of taxation, if the court had been inclined to want to raise it, which being true there was nothing left but to declare off the tax system of working the roads.

It was the belief of the members of the court at the time that the taxation system of working the roads was recommended last January that the present rate of taxes would produce sufficient money to work them but to their surprise it will not by any means do so. So the old system of road working will continue with us for some time yet at least, and the roads as heretofore will be what each neighborhood makes them.

The court should be congratulated on the honest effort which it is making to devise some means of bettering the roads without increasing the burdens of the tax payers. Everybody favors better roads and many would welcome them even at additional cost but the majority of the people feel that their burdens are amply sufficient and this is the view that our fiscal court took of the matter.

The following other matters of importance were passed on by the court:

Judge W. B. Taylor, County Attorney E. M. Woodward and Esq. W. S. Dean were appointed as a committee and empowered to have an iron bridge built across Adams' Fork Creek near where it empties into Rough river.

Esqs. Harrison Austin, B. S. Chamberlain and T. D. Owen were appointed as a committee and empowered with authority to have an iron bridge built across Hanley's Branch on the Hartford and Calhoun road.

County Court Clerk W. S. Tinsley and County Attorney E. M. Woodward were appointed as a committee and empowered to have the old windows in the lower rooms of the court house taken out and modern windows put in.

Esqs. B. S. Chamberlain and S. H. Render and Capt. Jas. M. DeWeese were appointed as a committee and authorized to rent a room in Hartford to be used by Company H, National Guards.

E. P. Bennett was allowed $26 for sheep killed and injured by dogs on September 2, 1906. The same was ordered certified to the Auditor of the State for payment. This is the first claim presented for payment from this county since the recent dog law was enacted.

Taylor-Rogers.

Mr. John Wesley Taylor and Miss Josephine Rogers, both of Hartford, were united in marriage at the residence of Mr. Dav Taylor, of Beaver Dam, Wednesday evening in the presence of a few friends. Rev. A. B. Gardner spoke the words that joined their fortunes for life. Miss Rogers is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Rogers, and is a most beautiful lady and is quite a gifted elocutionist, having studied quite extensively at the Bowling Green School of Expression. Mr. Taylor is the oldest son Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor, and is a druggist of splendid attainments. He now holds a responsible position with the drug firm of Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro. John, as he is familiarly known in Hartford, is quite popular among his acquaintances and is also a promising young business man. THE REPUBLICAN joins their many friends in extending hearty good wishes.

MUST HANG.

Fletcher to Die For Criminal Assault on Mary Gladder in Logan County.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 16.—The appellate court to-day passed upon the appeals from the Logan circuit court in cases of John H. Sacra against the commonwealth and W. R. Fletcher against the Commonwealth, reversing the judgment in the first named case and affirming a sentence of death in the latter. Chief Justice Hobson delivered the opinion of the court. The whole court considered the appeals and Judge Settle dissented from the opinion of reversal in the Sacra case.

Fletcher and Sacra were indicted jointly with Guy Lyon and Jim Lyon for the crime of rape upon the person of Mary Gladder. They were convicted and the punishment of both Fletcher and Sacra fixed at death. All questions raised in the Fletcher case were raised in the Sacra case except one. They were indicted the day after the crime was committed, and a mob sought to lynch them. Sacra was forced into trial while lying on a cot as the result of gun-shot wounds. The court here says a man should not be compelled to enter upon trial for his life when there is doubt about his ability to properly conduct his defense, especially where this disability is produced by armed violence pending the trial.

DIES ON A TRAIN

Does the Rev. Sam P. Jones While Going Home.

Had Closed Successful Revival at Oklahoma City and Was to Celebrate Birthday.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct., 15.—The Rev. Sam P. Jones, the noted Methodist evangelist, died suddenly on a Rock Island train, at Perry, a few miles west of Little Rock, to-day. He was en route to his home at Cartersville, Ga., from Oklahoma City, when he was stricken with heart failure and expired in a few minutes.

Mr. Jones and the other members of his party arose at 5 o'clock this morning. After dressing himself, he settled himself into his section to enjoy the ride through Arkansas. Suddenly he was seized with a sickness in his stomach. His daughter brought a cup of hot water, which for the time brought some relief. He went to the rear of the car and vomited, and returned feeling but little better. From that time he seemed to grow gradually worse, and it soon became evident to those in his party that he was an exceedingly ill man.

Everything possible was done to relieve his suffering, but to no avail. Surrounded by three members of his immediate family and reclining in the arms of his devoted partner in his evangelistic work, he passed away. The train bearing the body reached Little Rock shortly before noon, and after being prepared for burial by a local undertaker the body was again taken in charge by the members of the family, who left with the remains for their Georgia home.

With Mr. Jones when he died was Mrs. Jones, his wife; Mrs. Annie Pyron, his daughter; Miss Julia Jones, another daughter, and the Rev. Walt Holcomb, who has been with Mr. Jones for the past five years.

Samuel Porter Jones was born in Chambers county, Ala., October 16, 1847. The family removed to Cartersville, Ga., in 1859. Mr. Jones first studied for the law, being educated at a boarding school.

He was admitted to the Georgia bar in 1869, with the brightest prospects, but broke down in health from nervous dyspepsia and took to drink. This ended his career as a lawyer, and for a time it seemed that he would become a hopeless wreck.

In 1872, the turning point in his life came when he professed religion and joined the Methodist church.

The same year he became a clergyman, entering the North Georgia conference. He held various charges in this conference for eight years, and then became agent of the North Georgia orphanage, a post he held twelve years.

Hindman and another deposed agent took the stand and gave the other side of the matter. Commissioner Prewitt will receive the stenographic report of the testimony by Friday, and stated that he would make a prompt announcement of his ruling in the matter.

WED SECOND TIME

Did Edward Kelly and Mrs. Castlen.

Wed First Time Believing Castlen Killed in Bridge Disaster.

[Owensboro Inquirer.]

For the second time, Mrs. Neorann Castlen and Edward Kelly were united in the bans of matrimony Thursday night. The ceremony was performed by Magistrate Rodman at his residence on Daviess street between 8 and 9 o'clock. The witnesses were the members of Squire Rodman's family. The circumstances connected with and leading up to this marriage, are, perhaps, the most singular that have happened in Kentucky in recent years.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Kelly was given a decree of divorce from her husband, Simon Morris Castlen. The facts in the case as given first in the Inquirer, were that Simon Castlen left his wife and children three years ago and went to Texas. He remained there several months and then wrote home that he would return in a few days. He sent a package, which arrived, but he did not put in his appearance. Several days after the letter was received a wreck occurred at the Spottsville bridge, and a tramp resembling Castlen was killed. The body was buried, but later exhumed and identified as that of Castlen by his wife and other relatives. In the meantime, nothing further had been heard from Castlen. After the identification of the dead man as that of Simon Castlen, his wife filed suit for a life insurance policy to collect the amount due her. The insurance company refused to pay the money, claiming that sufficient proof of his death had not been furnished. Mrs. Castlen, in the meantime, married

Edward E. Kelly, of Evansville, and the couple were living together happily, when a rumor became afloat to the effect that Simon Castlen still lived and was in Owensboro. So completely did the Inquirer work the case that Simon Castlen came into the office and acknowledged that he was alive and in Owensboro.

The Attorneys for Mrs. Castlen in the insurance suit dropped the suit, from the court docket. Mrs. Castlen then separated from Kelly, whom she married while believing Castlen dead, and filed suit for divorce against Castlen. The decree was handed down Thursday, and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were united Thursday night for the second time in the bans of matrimony, and thus ends the second chapter in one of the most romantic stories that ever occurred in real life.

Dreaded "Cow Tick."

The "cow tick," which has been doing such deadly work in Tennessee, has made its appearance in Cumberland county, Ky., and the situation is by no means a pleasant one at this time.

For some time, government inspectors have been at work and noting the existence of "cow tick" among cattle, have quarantined the county and placed a restriction on owners to sell or remove infested stock, under penalty of having such stock confiscated and the owners subjected to a heavy fine. The "tick" was brought into the county on cattle from Tennessee, and is a knock-out to the cattle trade from that section.

Despite the quarantine and all precautions which are being taken, it is greatly feared that the adjacent counties will be invaded with these pests from the fact that in the dying of one grown tick is but the breeding of hundreds of new ones. Cattle thus ravaged are thrown into "Texas fever," which is contagious and much feared by cattle raisers.

Gold and the Sea.

"When the banks ship gold across the Atlantic," said a banker, "they prefer to ship it in bars rather than in coin. It loses less that way." "It loses less?" "Yes, sir. If $1,000,000 in gold coin is shipped across the sea, it is only $999,800 on its arrival. It loses from twelve to fifteen ounces, about $200, though abrasion, through knocking about with the motion of the waves. The sea makes gold lose weight, you see, the same as it does human beings.

Gold bars lose less. In fine weather they will only lose about $100 to each million. In the ugliest weather they don't lose over $150, whereas, in like conditions, gold coins have been known to lose $300.

"As gold shipments of $10,000,000 often occur, to make these shipments in gold bars instead of gold coin is a saving of $1,000 or more.

"It is odd to think, when you cross in one of these gold-laden ships, that every wave that hits the boat clips off ten or fifteen cents from its golden cargo."

Whole Town Travels Free.

[Railway World.]

The town in Lauenburg, in Schleswig-Holstein, enjoys a privilege which is probably unique in the world—that of free transit by rail to and from the neighboring towns of Buchen. As the inhabitants number about 5,500, and distance is about nine miles, the costliness of the privilege to the railway companies is great.

The queer exemption, according to the London Globe, dates from 1844, when the Berlin-Hamburg line was built. The Lauenburgers made great sacrifices to secure that the line should touch their town, but the physical difficulties were so great that the engineers abandoned the idea and took it through Buchen, to which town the Danish government afterward constructed a branch from Lauenburg, giving the Lauenburgers in perpetuity the right of free transit for themselves and their baggage.

Raising Hogs in the South.

[Southern Field.]

The conditions favorable to the raising of hogs—corn, forage crops, shade and water—are present in all parts of the South. The cured forms of pork—ham, bacon and sides—are very extensively consumed in the South, and a majority of these are brought in from the Northwestern States, where climate and food producing greater difficulties have to be overcome, to succeed, as compared with the South. Gen. T. T. Munford, of Uniontown, Ala., is operating forty-five acres exclusively in hog raising, and the results are exceedingly gratifying. He is carrying on his experiments along lines suggested by the diversification experts of the United States Department of Agriculture. Alfalfa is the principal forage crop for his hogs, but he also cut an average of three and a half tons an acre of alfalfa hay last spring before the middle of June. Not only has he found the raising of hogs profitable, but the character of the work associated with it was building up soil fertility rapidly.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisonous blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take, and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

E. L. DAVENPORT

Elected President Tobacco Growers A. S. of E.

Next Meeting of Convention Will be at Shelbyville October, 1907.

The National Tobacco Growers' branch of the A. S. of E. finished its third annual session at Clarksville, Tenn., Friday afternoon and adjourned to meet at Shelbyville, Ky., the last Wednesday in October, 1907.

E. L. Davenport, of Greenville, was re-elected president; N. Webster of Dry Ridge, Grant county, was elected vice-president by acclamation and C. Hays Taylor, of Indianapolis, was re-elected secretary and treasurer, also by acclamation.

A minimum price of $7 per hundred was recommended for the Western shipping leaf district; $8 for the West Kentucky, or purchase district; $15 for the Burley district; prices to be named by the convention of the tobacco growers of other districts. The report was amended on the motion of Bradley Wilson, so as to leave out the price fixed for the purchase district, and was adopted as amended.

The action of the convention, therefore was to fix a minimum average price of $7 on tobacco of the Shipping Leaf district and $15 on that of the Burley district.

The convention adopted a platform constitution and by-laws, and transacted other business of importance, making a very successful session. It was marked by remarkable unanimity and no differences of opinion arose that were not readily harmonized. The various sections represented got together without difficulty on a basis satisfactory to all.

As a final act of courtesy and mark of consideration toward the delegates citizens and Chamber of Commerce gave a banquet Friday night at the Masonic temple in honor of their guests. It was attended by all the delegates and by many representative men of the city and was a fit close to a successful convention.

The by-laws provide that each district union shall cause to be paid into the treasury of the department one-half of one cent on the total sales of the district unions and that the board of Directors shall make and publish a quarterly statement of the finances of the department.

An amendment was offered by Mr. Robertson and carried that the revenue derived by the above commission be equally divided between the National Association and the local union.

David Moreland, Hartford; A. Ross, Centertown; W. F. Stevens, Noreek; M. F. Sharp, Narrows, and J. J. Smith, Fordsville, are the delegates from Ohio county who were in attendance.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Sleeping and Dreaming.

There certainly is good reason to suspect that our entire general method of living, so far as differentiation of waking and sleeping hours is concerned, is wrong, but it does not seem as yet to have occurred to the learned men to make the simple experiments requisite to the acquirements of exact knowledge. Any one, of course, can do it to his own satisfaction, but the individual result of an unscientific test would be far from conclusive. An effort by one of our own societies to deter-

Nature's Way Is Best.

The function strengthening and tissue building plan of treating chronic lunging and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce, is following after Nature's plan of restoring health.

He uses natural remedies, that is extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

Used as ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Black Cherry-bark, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot and Stone root, specially exert their influence in cases of lung, bronchial and throat troubles, and this "Discovery" is, therefore, a sovereign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers, of all the several schools of practice, for the cure not only of the diseases named above but also for indigestion, torpor of liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles, and catarrh, no matter where located.

You don't have to take Dr. Pierce's say-so alone as to this; what he claims for his "Discovery" is backed up by the writings of the most eminent men in the medical profession. A request by postal card or letter, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little book of extracts from eminent medical authorities endorsing the ingredients of his medicines, will bring a little book free that is worthy of your attention if needing a good, safe, reliable remedy of known composition for the cure of almost any old chronic, or lingering malady.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent to anyone sending 21 cents in one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

mine whether there may not be in this simple revolution of hours a universal panacea for American nerves, would seem to be in order. We should not, of course, anticipate any immediate effect, whatever the result of such experimentation, because human nature is obstinate, and long evenings by the fireside are notoriously agreeable. One effect, generally considered highly desirable, we suspect would be certain. Almost surely such sleep would be less dreamful, and, consequently, according to both the learned men and experience, more restful physically and more recuperative mentally.

But here again practice would encounter the serious obstacle of disinclination. Dreaming either by day or by night is one of the greatest of luxuries. It is not, of course, a physical necessity, since we know many persons who never dream at all, and yet continue to be exasperatingly healthful. But observation teaches us that such persons invariably are most interesting. They may, and often do, possess in a notable degree sweetness of disposition, but they are devoid of imagination as to be out of touch with the fantasies of existence.

Pine Trees Made Into Silk. About five tons of artificial silk are now manufactured daily in Europe and the demand far exceeds the supply. This is one of the many modern products of cellulose, that wonderful substance of which the microscopic cells of plants are made and which composes about one-third of all the vegetable and animal matter in the world. Rebert Kennedy Duncan, now professor of industrial chemistry in the University of Kansas, points out its possibilities for the manufacturer. For instance, he writes: "A pine tree is worth $10 a ton; cut and stripped it is worth $15; boiled into pulp it is worth $40; bleached it is worth $55, which turned into viscose and spun into silk is worth $5,500."—Ex.

Keep the bowels open when you have a cold and use a good remedy to allay the inflammation of the mucous membranes. The best is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It contains no opiates, moves the bowels, drives out the cold. It is reliable and tastes good. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Beauty and Fortune by Lot. Marriage and fortune by lottery is one of the bright excitements of the Milan exhibition. There is a beauty show, and the winning beauties are put into a lottery at $2 the ticket. To the lady emerging as "first prize" in this lottery is attached a dower of $200,000. And if the winner and his prize do not care to mate, after proper reflection, they then share the fortune and part.

CARY WINS.

Court of Appeals Says He Is Legal Clerk of McLean County.

The case of R. G. Cary against Elsworth McEwen, which was a controversy over the office of county court clerk of McLean county, was affirmed by the Court of Appeals last Friday. This is an affirmation of Judge Birkhead's decision wherein he held that Cary was elected to the office of county court clerk. The election commissioners gave the office to McEwen, a Republican. Judge Birkhead's decision gave the office to Cary a Democrat.

The case was tried out at a special term of the McLean circuit court several months ago and an appeal was immediately taken to the Court of Appeals.

The point at issue was the count of ballots in the Rumsey precinct. Judge Birkhead opened the ballot box in open court and made a count of the ballots which showed, at that time, that the returns made by the election officers in that precinct gave McEwen more votes than he actually received. The difference between the votes actually received as shown by the judicial count, and that with which he was credited on the face of the returns, was sufficient to overcome his majority and gave the election to his opponent, Cary.

The election was held eleven months ago and McEwen went into office January 1.

Made Him Feel Small.

An Arkansas paper tells a story of a man who was caught out in the woods during a storm. He didn't want to get wet, and the only place he could find was a hollow log, into which he managed to crawl. The rain lasted a couple of hours, when the fellow decided he had better be going home. He tried to extract himself from the log but the soft wood had swollen and he couldn't budge a peg. There alone in the desolate woods, many miles from the nearest habitation, the poor man lay for hours thinking of all the meanness he had done, when all at once it dawned upon him that he had read his home paper for three years without paying a cent for it and then refused it at the postoffice, and it made him feel so small that he crawled out of the log through a knot hole.—Ex.

In her address to the charter members Frau Liebrich is reported to have said: I loved my husband before he loved me, and he returned my affection only when he saw me in a white dress. White is a symbol of pure love, and thus appeals to the better half of the male creation. The plainest girl dressed in white will conquer hearts more rapidly than a beauty who stoops to the meretricious attractions of hundred hues."

Iowa Merchants Find Nothing Pays as Well as Newspapers Advertising.

The Iowa Retail Merchants' association in state convention at Sioux City recently agreed that newspaper advertising is the very best possible way to acquaint their customers with what a merchant has for sale.

Among the subjects discussed was "Why and How Should Retail Merchants Advertise?"

There were a number of volunteer addresses, and frequent changes of copy was recommended. It was also agreed that advertising should be constant; that a half page used now and then was not as good as a few inches run every day or each week where weekly papers were issued. Every one denounced the practice of lying in an advertisement, believing it better to surprise a customer than to disappoint him. All urged friendliness to newspapers, on the basis that every time a merchant's name appeared in the newspaper it was valuable advertising.

When a horse is so overworked it lies down and in other ways declares its inability to go further, you would consider it criminal to use force. Many a man of humane impulses, who would not willingly harm a kitchen, is guilty of cruelty where his own stomach is concerned. Overdriven, overworked, what it needs is something that will digest the food eaten and help the stomach to recuperate. Something like Kodol for dyspepsia that is sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

An Electric Cradle.

"An electric cradle," said the salesman. "It is the latest thing. The ordinary light current runs it, as in the case of the electric fan." He attached to the cradle the flexible cord through which the electricity flowed, and, turning the button, stepped back. The cradle rocked with a smooth, soft motion. There was a tiny switch to make it go fast or slow.

"Great, isn't it?" said the salesman. "My only wonder is that, with our electric sewing machines, carpet sweepers, chaffing dishes, hot-water bags, and what-not, we didn't hit on the electric cradle long before this."

Human Blood Marks

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Bac, Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for Weak Lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by Z. Wayne Griffin and Bro., druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

"A TARIFF for revenue only." Hard times for us all.

It is easy to start a "dollar campaign," but it takes more to push it along.

AS LONG as his barrel holds out, Hearst is sure to have some supporters.

THE "lid" was entirely lifted in Louisville last Sunday. Where is the Governor?

IT is to be noticed that when Secretary Taft is sent on an errand, he always delivers the goods.

THE Cubans may as well understand that wherever the stars and stripes are planted, order must prevail.

THE fact that the National Republican Congressional Committee sent Mr. Shaw into our district this year, indicates that they consider it debatable territory.

WE thought the "Beckham lid" in Louisville was an electioneering scheme, but that it would stay on until after the primary. Look out for a trade somewhere, Mr. McCreary.

MR. ADAMS, who is speaking for the Anti-Saloon League in Kentucky, should send enough of those Beckham circulars to Louisville to weigh down the lid, at least until after the primary.

MR. CLEVELAND has stopped fishing long enough to remark that the breed of "dorgs," who have possession of the Democratic trail in New York, are in no wise related to the pack with which he used to hunt.

DEMOCRACY insists that it has no intention of abolishing the tariff fence. The idea is simply to remove a few rails from the top. If it is bad for the farmer and all other classes, as they claim, it should be removed entirely.

REMEMBER, if the bond issue carries, it cannot increase your tax rate. Upon the other hand, a clean healthy town will attract new citizens, with more taxable property, which in a short time should enable the council to lower our tax rate.

IF WE wait for a sewerage system, and good streets until the money accumulates in our city Treasury in sufficient amount to do the work, most of us, who are now living, will be walking the "gold paved streets," or inhabiting a place which needs no drainage.

IT is said the Democrats are securing election officers for the State primary to serve at $1.00 per day. The regular election officers are paid $2.00. So the primary officers are contributing $1.00 each to the cause. The Hartford Herald should look into this.

DEMOCRATIC papers and speakers continue to claim the tariff the mother of all the trusts. However, the question, which has been repeatedly thrust under their nose, how it happens that free trade England is plastered with trusts, remains unanswered.

WHEN we hear our Democratic friends prating about the tariff being a necessary part of the trusts, we are forced to ask them if they are willing to advocate abolishing the tariff on tobacco. We challenge any Democratic paper, in this "neck of the woods," to do so. No Democratic candidate for Congress in Kentucky would dare take such a position. Everybody with a grain of sense knows the American tobacco trust would be delighted to see the tariff removed from tobacco, enabling it to import the Cuban and other South American tobaccos, and knock out the American Society of Equity, in so far as they could substitute for our article.

THE Fayette county grand jury has indicted four former attendants of the Eastern Kentucky Insane Asylum for the murder of Fred Ketterer, a patient, last June. When this investigation was begun the State machine sought in every way to minimize it and even intimated that the report had been started for political purposes. To the everlasting shame of the State, those institutions have been converted into mere cogs in the wheels of the political machine, which is running things with a high hand at Frankfort. The only remedy is a non-partisan board of control, made up of high class men, who will turn these political henchmen out, and install persons whose character and standing will be guarantees of their fitness to handle the poor unfortunates whom the State has undertaken to care for.

THE PROPOSED BOND ISSUE.

There seems to be some misunderstanding on the part of Hartford voters on the bond question. In the order for the election, it is stated that a levy of 75 cents upon the one hundred dollars worth of property will be made to pay the amount to sinking fund and interest. Now, this does not mean any additional levy. We are paying 75 cents and $1.50 poll now. That is all the law will permit. It is safe to say the levy will remain the same for some years to come, and, unless we vote the bonds, we will continue to do without the sewerage and macadamized streets also.

No one will deny, who knows the conditions, that during the summer the main business part of town has been in a terrible unsanitary condition. The property owners, as individuals, are not so much to blame for this. They cannot get rid of this filth without some adequate underground drainage system. As our population grows, conditions will be worse. The only result of delay will be an epidemic of sickness, such as we have never known before. We are up against this proposition now, and the only way the City Council can do anything to relieve this condition, is for the voters to support this measure, and give it the money with which to work.

IT is believed that the amount asked for will furnish the sewerage system and finish macadamizing our streets, which is an absolute necessity to the growth of the town, as well as a just concession to those who live on streets which have not been improved, and are being taxed to maintain those which have.

THE ONLY SENSIBLE VIEW.

Every few weeks some fanatic, who is worse scared than hurt, or perhaps wants to "out Herod, Herod," attempts to start trouble between the whites and blacks in some sections of the country, and by no means is this confined to the South.

IT is unwise, from every standpoint, to excite race hatred further. The negro is here, and here to stay, and it may be well, in this connection, to remind some folks that he did not bring himself here. At the beginning he was a very unwilling subject. It may be well also to remark that the South would never consent to his colonization or removal. It was tried a few years ago, with the result that those who undertook it were given so many days to leave the country. In the South cotton is king, and this particular king cannot be maintained without the colored laborer.

IT has been pretty well demonstrated that, to educate, and make him feel the responsibilities of citizenship is the only sensible way to deal with the negro.

Happily in Ohio county, we have never had any race troubles, and consequently very little race hatred. Here, the colored people, generally, have been content to pursue their own vocation, with no desire to court social equality with the whites, but with marked effort to care for those of their race, dependant.

The colored race deserves our pity, rather than censure, or brutal treatment, without excuse, merely because of color. The one who would accord the unoffending negro brutal treatment, or deny him an opportunity to improve his moral condition, advertises a small soul, and, if given an opportunity, would be brutal to the whites as well.

Sometimes attempts have been made to discredit Republicans, because they have only been kind, and willing to assist the negro in his attempts, under great difficulties, to educate himself. In this connection we wish to quote from the pen of Henry Watterson, a Democrat of Democrats, in Tuesday's Courier-Journal:

"It is to be hoped that the friends of James H. Fuqua at Russellville, who proposed to 'boycott' him if he introduces Booker T. Washington at Frankfort, constitute a small list upon the roster of his friends and a small part of the population of the hospitable little capital of Logan county. If they are 'prominent citizens' of Russellville, as set forth by correspondents, they are not representative citizens of Kentucky.

To say that Booker T. Washington is one of the sanest men in the South, and one of the most dispassionate students of the race question that the presence of freed negroes in the United States has produced, would be to go over old ground. As an educator and thinker he has attained prominence and achieved distinction, not only because of his ability and earnestness, but also because of his tact he has displayed in lessening friction where too often the well-meaning champion of the negro increased it.

The United States has been cordial in its appreciation of Washington's work and in its reception of the man wherever he has discussed the problem which he has done more than any other to elucidate. Kentucky's hospitality should be extended to him—and persons who are indignant that the Superintendent of Public Instruction should introduce the noted educator should not be regarded as being reflectors of State sentiment.

Several unfortunate "incidents" have occurred in connection with Prof. Washington's work in the East, and have worked his cause a greater injury than they have done the well intentioned, but mistaken white men, who have essayed to make a social equal of a negro who has never sought such distinction for himself, or argued its value or its possibility to his race. There can be no reason why the Superintendent of Public Instruction in Kentucky should not, in his official capacity, introduce a negro who would be a credit to Kentucky if he were a native of the State."

ON COLD TRACK

Is Missouri Police Who Says He Has Roy Green and Wants Reward.

(Owensboro Inquirer.)

Roy Green, who was hanged here last March a year ago for the murder of James Coombs, is supposed to be dead, but there are some people who are not aware of the fact. At the time Green was hung a report was circulated over the city that he had come to life at his home, after being taken there and worked with by the doctors.

This report was never verified, but Chief of Police Meisenheimer has received a letter from Caruthersville, Mo., in which the writer, H. M. Stubblefield, chief marshal of Caruthersville, states that he has a negro answering to the description of Roy Green, of whom he has a picture and a card giving a description. He says about twenty years old, and five feet seven inches tall. He says that the negro he has in custody which he thinks is Roy Green, goes under the name of Peter Durrelt, at Caruthersville. Marshal Stubblefield wants to know if Green has ever been captured and if the $200 reward has been claimed.

There are some negroes in Owensboro who will swear that Roy Green did come to life and is now at large.

I know of a wedding that is going to take place Sunday, but local custom restrains me from reporting it in advance. I shall respect the custom, but I don't like it. The next time I marry (don't mail a marked copy of this issue of THE REPUBLICAN to Mrs. ---) I mean to have the event heralded from the house just as soon as the prospective brides, smiles and in a low sweet voice murmurs that she will have to have time to think it over. There are two occasions upon which one can head the procession and everybody stand deferentially aside; the wedding and the funeral. I failed to do the herald act on one such occasion. On the other one I shall be unconscious of my dignity of right-of-way, but you may bet your soul if I marry again and there ain't a lot of folks there to line up while me and mine pass that it won't be because they didn't know what was going to happen. I'm for publicity of marriages.

WALKING ON WATER IS EASY.

When a Person Knows How He Can Travel Long Distances.

Man has learned to travel down snow-covered mountains in safety by use of the snowshoe or ski; he can skim over frozen surfaces on skates, but he has not fully learned to wing the air, nor could he until recently tread the waves.

A pair of aquatic shoes has been constructed which enables its wearer to walk on the water as easily as a ship sails the sea. "Canal boats," for sure, are these water shoes; but when a foot is slipped into each and the wearer gives a slight lurch forward with the body and a deft push with first the right foot and then the left and the shore begins to slip behind him as if he were wearing the famed seven-leagued boots, size is of no consideration. A long pull, a strong pull, first with one foot and then with t'other and he is slipping down stream as easily and poetically and as noiselessly as sneaks the Indian in his birch bark canoe.

Lieut. Arthur T. Sadler, of the United States volunteer life saving crew at Charlesbank, Mass., is the discoverer of this new sport and he is also the inventor of the novel boat shoes. "Foot craft," he calls his invention, and his call, "Come on, boys, bring out the craft and have a 'tread,'" always produces a hearty response, for the sport has found favor with all who have tried it.

The shoes are light and the very newest are much shorter than those first put on the market. A "carry" with this, or, more correctly speaking, these novel craft is much easier than with even the lightest canoe.

Mr. Sadler has proved that his water shoes are perfectly managed.

and, he can turn directly about in them, round a bend in the river with ease, pull a long stroke or take a short step, stand perfectly still or slide along with the tide at will.

His longest trip has been two miles in tide water, but he declares that there is no reason why eight or even ten miles could not be accomplished at a stretch without fatigue.

—Technical World Magazine.

WHY SHE IS CALLED MISS.

A teacher in one of the Indian schools relates the following incident of an Indian boy's quick thought. He had asked the meaning of the word "miss."

"To miss," I told him, "is the same as to fail. You shoot at a bird or at a mark, and do not hit it—you miss it. You go to a tailor for a coat, and your coat fits badly—it is a misfit. You hope to enter the middle class next year, but you cannot pass the examinations, and so you miss the promotion."

His face wore a puzzled air, and he shook his head.

"Then," said I, "there is another meaning of 'miss.' We called a married woman 'madam,' but an unmarried woman 'miss.'"

His face brightened. Then he smiled and nodded:

"Ah, I see!" said he. "She miss the man."

IN EVIDENCE.

"Yes, sir," the barber prattled, as he shaved the patron, "livin' is mighty high these days. All kinds o' prices has gone up so it's hard fur us workin' men to even git enough to eat."

"Yes?" groaned the victim; "I judge, however, that you find onions cheap enough." —The Catholic Standard.

PIPING FRESH AIR TO CITIES.

The piping of fresh air to cities is no longer a dream of scientists. It has been practically tried, in an experimental way, in the crowded Whitechapel district of London, under the supervision of Dr. T. G. Lyon, one of London's most eminent scientists. The air is sucked into pipes by powerful suction pumps from some high elevation where the sanitary conditions are perfect and forced into large storage tanks similar to gas tanks. When stored in these tanks under pressure, the pure air is distributed in pipes leading into different houses.

The air can be distributed through pipes upward of 50 to 100 miles in length without losing any of its purity. By opening a switch the customer gets his daily supply of fresh air in his rooms, while the foul air is allowed to 'escape through withdrawal ducts.

When once installed in a city, the supply of pure mountain ozone can be supplied at little cost, and the scientists estimate that in the congested quarters of London 50 per cent. of the ordinary sickness could be moderated if not entirely eliminated.—Sunday Magazine.

GUDGEONS ALWAYS PLENTIFUL.

"What is the use," ask the confidence game people, "of working hard for a living when there are so many easy marks at large?" What is the use, indeed? The world is full of easy marks. Take, for instance, the case of the woman in New York, who engaged herself to marry a long list of men from whom she obtained large sums of money. Looked at calmly, without prejudice, it seems like a transparent game. She advertised in the "personal" columns of the New York newspapers that make a specialty of such advertisements, proclaiming herself as a rich widow pining for matrimonial companionship. Her victims were numerous. They came tumbling into the net from all directions. Working in collusion with confederates, she could move from house to house—the gang had three richly furnished establishments—and pose under various names, and it is believed that she was "engaged" at one time to four different men and getting money from them all at once.

SOMEWHAT AMBIGUOUS.

Biggs—Well, he said his wife could always find him there when he went out nights.—The Bohemian.

SOME ADVANTAGE AT LEAST.

She—I can never marry you, but we can at least always be friends.

He—I suppose that is one of the advantages of not getting married.

A New Heel.

The india rubber heel has taken a further development. The latest novelty in this direction is a thick piece of india rubber the upper and lower layers of leather on the heel so that the actual heel does not come in contact with the ground, but makes a cushion between the foot and the leather heel, says Home Chat. This invention is said to do away with the insecurity on slippery ground which is one of the principal drawbacks in the ordinary rubber heel.

Bryan and His Follies.

In ideas there is enough of Bryan and his follies in the speech to give trouble to its author and to his party. He says the Tariff question is very closely allied to the trust question, but he forgot to mention that England, which has no Tariff for Protection, has almost as many trusts as there are in the United States. He condemned trusts, and denounced the use of trust money in campaigns, while beside him while he was talking was the head of the one of the biggest trusts in the country, Lewis Nixon, who was Bryan's host from the time when he reached this side of the Atlantic till he went to Madison Square Garden. The "tainted money" which he condemned was put up very liberally by Belmont, Nixon, Sheehan and others of his new supporters to hire the hall in which he spoke, and the same sort of money, with the same kind of men back of it, will finance his campaign if he should be nominated in 1908.

Fordsville Couple Weds.

(Owensboro Messenger.)

Miss Ethel Johnson and Mr. Curvie Wells, of Fordsville, were married at the home of the bride, on Triplett street by Rev. W. D. Nowlin, 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. Mrs. Wells is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Johnson and is a beautiful and accomplished young woman. Mr. Wells is a son of Mr. J. E. Wells of Fordsville, and is a popular young farmer at that place. They left on the 9 o'clock Illinois Central train for Fordsville, where they will reside.

Concerning Fairy Tales.

"I say, mamma," asked little Tommy, "do fairy tales always begin with 'Once upon a time?'" "No, dear, not always," replied mamma; "they sometimes begin with 'My love, I have been detained at the office again to-night.'"

The Only Sure Way.

A person of little tact once remarked to the octogenarian Auber: "What a sad thing it is, this old age business!"

"Yes," agreed the old magician, "it is sad. But," he added, with witty philosophy, "up to the present time no surer way have been discovered to live a long time."

When Woman Rules.

"Jim," said the editor.

"Yes, sir."

"Go up and interview that lady politician who claims to have nothing to say. Let her talk about two columns and make your escape as best you can."

Well-Timed.

"That was a great sermon you preached this morning," said the old church warden, "and it was well timed, too."

"Yes," rejoiced the parson with a deep sigh, "I noticed that."

"Noticed what?" asked the puzzled warden.

"That several of the congregation looked at their watches frequently," answered the good man with another deep sigh.

Potentialities of Coal Tar.

(London Globe.)

The discoveries of the potentialities of coal tar have allowed of the production of the beautiful alizarine and aniline colors of to-day, and it has made them far cheaper than the old pigments. It is characteristic that, while an Englishman made the discovery on which a great part of modern chemical industry is based, none of his countrymen could be induced to take advantage of it. It was too theoretic for the self-styled practical man of business, who preferred his old method of the vat and the tub; and the prophet of coal tar, being without honor in his own country, had to find a refuge among Germans who were not so blind to a new invention.

Cactus and Corn Cobs.

We are hearing much that is full of encouragement concerning the various processes for making alcohol out of the waste products of the farm. Just now we are assured in rather a vague and general way that it will be possible to make alcohol from corn cobs at a price heretofore deemed impossible. We are also told that the much abused cactus of the western plains can be used with even better results than the corn cob in the protection of alcohol.

Our readers will recall the fact that Congress has recently arranged to free the alcohol used as fuel or lights or for commercial purposes for the tax now imposed upon whiskey. The intention was to encourage the use of alcohol for fuel and to encourage its productions from the waste of the farm. The law does not take effect until January 1, 1907, but on all hands experiments are being made, and the indications now are that a new, convenient and economical fuel will be developed not only for corn cobs and cactus, but from various other products of the farm, and that it will add something at least to the income of the American farmers.

A SONG

Saved This Man's Life at Perryville During The Civil War.

[Danville Advocate.]

During the fierce and bloody battle of Perryville which is remembered by many old residents a pathetic incident is recalled which seems like a fairy story, as it came to a happy climax in a most remarkable manner. Many deeds of valor have been told to the rising generation by those who saw the cannons belch forth deadly missiles and faced the unceasing fire of the enemy, and many of them are remarkable. Rev. John Bruce was told the story that follows by an old soldier who was a Confederate follower, but never repeated it to anyone until recently, when an incident of war brought to his memory this story that he heard the old soldier tell many years ago. It was on the last night of the fighting. The Confederate guard had been formed for picket duty, and one post was open to the enemy and the sharpshooters that it was conceded by all to be a sacrifice of a life for a soldier drew it. After a consultation among the men it was decided to cast lots and see who would be the victim of a Yankee sharpshooter. The duty fell to a gallant young Kentuckian, who had run away from home to join the Southern cause. He was a fine specimen of manhood, and was known to possess a magnificent voice. Having been reared in a Christian home he was early taught the good old songs, and after making his will and arranging with his comrades to take care of his personal matters, he went on duty that night singing the grand old song, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

All through the lonely night, when the bullets were flying every now and then from the rifles of the sharpshooters, he kept up a song, that had been taught him in childhood. Next morning he walked into camp and his comrades were surprised to find him alive. About ten years after the close of the war a large excursion boat was playing along the placid Potomac river. In a crowd of women stood a fine looking man entertaining them with his magnificent voice. A little way off sat another man reading a newspaper. The singer all at once struck up the old song, "Jesus Lover of My Soul." The reader noticed something in it that reminded him of days gone by. After the singer had finished, he walked to where the gay crowd was seated, and, grasping the man by the hand, asked, "Were you in the Confederate army?" "Yes," replied the singer. "Were you at the battle of Perryville?" "I was," he replied, growing more interested. "Then said the speaker, 'that song made my trusty rifle drop from my shoulder when you were on picket duty, and I was a sharpshooter on the other side appointed to get the soldier on duty at that post out of the way. It was a beautiful moon light night in October, and when I heard you come on duty singing that old song I could hardly keep my courage up. Just as I was preparing to send a well-aimed shot, your voice rang out, 'Cover my defenseless head with the shadow of Thy Wing.' It was too much for me, and, I unloading my gun, and returned to the command, I have never related the story until now, but your voice returned to me in a way that I have never heard since that memorable night."

Males Exceed Females.

In the Jahrbuch, published by the German government, it is stated that the only countries in Europe in which the number of males exceeds the females are Servia, Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece. She Teutonic, Latin and Slav nations have a slight excess of females, which is often a few thousand, and rarely as much as 800,000. The United States, Canada, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay and other countries have an excess of males. In Philippines the males are in excess.

Girls Men Like.

They love silent charmer. Talking to men is a waste of time. Mankind is capable of talking enough himself.

It is said they will not balk at an imperfect mouth if the teeth be perfect.

They adore girls who go in for physical culture, but—retain a sylvan-like waist.

They like them plump—because these plump girls are thought to be invariably good-natured.

Men like sweetly sentimental charmers who can listen to good-nights "until it be to-morrow."

It is whispered, too, that these same men like, in addition to all these virtues and beauties, girls with money. No wonder there are so many bachelors.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19.

WONDERS SEEN BY SAILORS.

Among Them May Surely Be Counted the Singing Fish.

Simbad, the sailor, hauling in a fish, scratched it on the stomach gently. Immediately the little creature began to purr, at the same time swelling up like a football under the process of inflation.

Rigger and bigger grew the toadfish, till finally it was almost round, and prickles stood out all over it. And so loud did it purr that the anglers had to raise their voices to be heard.

"A toadfish is all right," said the sailor, "but did you ever see a singing fish?"

"What's that? I can't hear ye." "I'm talkin' about singin' fish. Ye find 'em in them strange waters off Ceylon. The natives don't like 'em to be caught. They prize 'em and guard 'em the same as we do song birds."

"This here singin' fish makes a sound like tiny, far-off bells, or like a wine glass when ye rub its rim with a wet finger. It's a pleasant sound, delicate, clear, sweet."

Simbad, the sailor, threw the toadfish overboard. The air had gone out of it by now. It had collapsed like a punctured tire.

"Pardner," he said, impressively, "ye may think ye've seen strange things in yer time; but lemme tell ye this:

"Ye won't know what strangeness will ye wake up in the small hours off Ceylon, and in the moonlight one of them there singin' fish puts its head out o' the water near yer ship, and the soft, pale night is filled with sweet, delicate music, like far-off silver bells."

THE MEN RESPONSIBLE.

The late Alexander Muir of Toronto, author of "The Maple Leaf," Canada's national anthem, was interested all his life in the divorce laws, which were too often, he claimed, unfair to women. Mr. Muir frequently declared that men, not their wives, were in nine cases out of ten responsible for unhappy marriages.

"The trouble with many husbands," he once said, "is that they treat their wives as a Toronto man used to do. This man, sitting in his drawing room on a cool evening, cried out fiercely: 'Shut that door, confound it! What's the matter with you, anyway? Do you want to freeze me?' The cook appeared astutely in the open doorway.

"Do you know who you are speaking to, sir?" she said in a stern voice.

"The man, taken aback, stammered: 'Oh, excuse me. I thought it was my wife.'"

HOUSE UNDER RIVER.

Society in Paris has just awakened to the fact that one of its leaders has completed a magnificent and costly mansion under the River Seine, where one can enjoy the most delicious coolness during torrid days. Count Victor de Larnieu is the proprietor of the novel mansion, which he had built secretly between Melun and Sens in order to surprise his friends.

A few days ago he sent out invitations and automobiles to convey his guests to the strange habitation, and on arrival every one was surprised to find a most luxurious abode under the water. The entrance is through a grotto on the river embankment, and is adorned with many statues. An elevator takes the guests below the level of the river, and then an entrance is made to a magnificent reception room, in the center of which a marble fountain adds to the coolness of the surroundings.—N. Y. World.

SILENCING A GHOST.

Pat Donovan once had a very bad habit of going home nearly every night in the week the worse for drink. His patient wife tried many means to cure him, but without success. At last she thought of a plan.

On his way home Pat had to pass through a churchyard, and she got a neighbor to try and frighten him.

The man arrayed himself like a ghost, and hid himself in a newly made grave. As Pat went by he began to groan terribly.

"What's the matter?" asked the Irishman.

"I'm cold! I'm cold!" "No wonder," said Pat, "you're not half covered up."

And with this he took hold of a spade that was handy, and began to fill in the grave. The ghost was soon silenced.—N. Y. Weekly.

WAY OF ONE MAN.

He was romantic, but bashful for his age. At 25 it is expected nowadays that a man should be matter of fact, especially if he is to be Oslerized in 15 years.

She was his equal in romance, but a trifle older, old enough, indeed, to be a widow.

The conversation had turned on the ever important subject of mothers-in-law. There was a lull in the argument. Gazing far out on to the billowy deep she sighed and said:

"Ah, me! I shall never have another mother-in-law!"

He looked at her with interest for a moment, and then suddenly blurted out:

"My mother died when I was very young!"

It was an inadvertence, but he couldn't draw back. She threw herself into his arms, and they have lived happily—up to now.

ALMOST TOO FRANK.

Prof. Lombroso's jubilee at the University of Turin is the occasion of some stories about the scientist. He is described as "absent minded, frank, kindly, always dwelling in the moon." Once his daughters were very reluctant to go with him to call upon a stupid lady of their acquaintance. Lombroso finally persuaded them to go, and then burst out as follows to their astonished hostess: "I have had the deuce of a time in getting these foolish girls to come with me. They always do dread being bored! But I promised them that we would hurry to eat some of your cakes, and then go away immediately!"

A SURE SIGN.

Feverishly she opened her hotel bill.

"Well," she said, sighing with relief, "this seems reasonable enough, I—"

But the clerk snatched the paper rudely from her hand.

"Hold on," he said. "There must be some mistake."

BREACH OF PROMISE.

"She says they're engaged, and he says they're not. Now what do you make of that?"

"I think it will take a jury to decide."

DOOMED TO BE AN OLD MAID.

Ella—Bella's father calls her "tainted money."

Stella—What is that for?

Ella—Because nobody will accept her.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

"Why is it that married men live longer than single?"

"Well, most of them don't know they're living."

NO HOPE.

Mrs. Newed—I hope that you and I will get along amicably together.
The New Cook—Land sakes, mum! I guess you ain't never had a cook afore.

TITLES TO ARCTIC LANDS.

Lands Hitherto Unknown Discovered and Named by Explorers.

The voyage of the Canadian government cruiser Arctic to the far north suggests for consideration the question of the ownership of some far northern lands. For many years explorers of various nationalities—British, American, Scandinavian and others—have ventured into the frozen wilderness lying between the Dominion of Canada and the north pole and have there discovered lands hitherto unknown and have named them and planted flags upon them. There has been much international rivalry in the work of elaborating the arctic map and of pushing on toward the pole.

But there has been little thought in the minds of the adventurers or in that of the public of the delimitation of international boundaries in the realms of paleocrytic ice and eternal snow. But now the Canadian government brings that thought to mind in the intimation that the dominion extends clear to the north pole and that all the lands which have been discovered and explored in those regions, no matter by whom, are under the British flag.

Academically the question is somewhat complicated and might form the subject of interminable argument. There are those who hold that discovery and exploration give title to new lands, while others insist that title is not perfected without actual occupation and permanent settlement. But how if the lands in question are not fit for or susceptible of settlement?

GENEROSITY.

His Sister (generously)—You needn't have given me the biggest half, Willie.
Willie—Doesn't matter; you've got a worm in it.

MULE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

There is reported from the Morel district of Switzerland a case of mule suicide. The beast had received rough usage and was being driven daily with a heavy load back and forth from Binn Valley to Morel. The other evening, as the muleteer had added, as usual, his own weight to the tired mule's already heavy load, the beast plunged and reared so violently that the man was thrown with violence, breaking his arm, while the pack was also flung off. Bolting then along the torrent side, the mule was nearing the bridge of Schert at full gallop, when a party of men barred the way. Seeing escape thus blocked and recapture inevitable, with a return to the old unbearable cruelty, the animal stopped, turned to the torrent flowing at a great depth below, and with a side leap plunged headlong into the abyss.

TWO REQUISITES.

On one of Senator Hoar's annual pilgrimages to Marblehead with Worcester friends he expressed a wish to meet some "genuine" Marbleheaders. While driving down Front street "Uncle Bill" High was espied, and Edward W. Doherty thought no more "genuine" Marbleheader could be found.

The carriage came to a halt while the two men were made acquainted. After a few remarks about the weather, fishing, etc., the senator, with a twinkle in his eye, asked: "Can we drive around to Gloucester this way?" pointing in an easterly direction.

"Uncle Bill" saw the twinkle, and quickly answered: "Yes, if your horses are web-footed, and you've got strong faith in the Almighty."

HIS "GRAFT" WAS GOOD.

Laborer Would Have Been Wasting His Time at Work.

The man, a laborer, was grimy, and bent with toil. His face was bronzed to a statue color, denoting the toiler of the street. Passersby who saw him sitting on the curb on West Water street just after six o'clock lent a look of pity, for the day had been hot. He smoked a black, stubby pipe.

"Been a pretty hot day," remarked a benevolent looking man, who paused with a sympathizing look.

"Yes, sir, mighty hot," replied the man on the curb, seemingly pleased at the attention. He had a large, heavy looking bundle beside him.

"Got far to go?" "Over two mile, sir. I was just restin' a bit."

"Why don't you take a car?" "Can't afford it, sir. Wages too small to ride on street cars."

The man felt in his pocket and brought forth a dime.

"There, that will help you on your way with your bundle. There'll be a nickel left for to-morrow night." And the benevolent man went on his way.

He was no sooner out of sight than the man picked up his bundle, which a child might easily have carried, and dove into a nearby saloon. "How they coming?" asked the bartender.

"Fine, Mac," was the reply. The man grinned. "Just got two more car fares. Say, gimme a schooner this time and take one yourself."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

NO ESCAPE FOR HIM.

Second in Two Duels Pursued by remorseless Fate.

Apocryph of the recent Andre-Negrier duel, the Paris Figaro sought the views of a man who had the reputation of an expert on the field of honor. He at once began to rail at duels with pistols. He could not bear even to speak of them. The fact was that he had once himself, at an encounter of that kind, received a ball in the shoulder.

"Then you disapprove of them simply because you were defeated?" "Why, I was not defeated."

"What?"

"No; I was a second. You may well believe that I promised myself never to mix again in affairs of that sort. However, one day I had to accompany a friend on the field. He had asked it of me as a personal favor; I could not refuse. But I insisted upon one condition."

"What was that?"

"That I should climb a tree during the firing."

"A good scheme."

"You think so? Well, I was wounded again; my friend fired in the air."

NO SURPRISE.

Mother (sternly)—Jennie, didn't Harry kiss you by surprise last night at the door?
Daughter—Oh, no! He just thinks he did.

THAT SETTLED IT.

"He was the most superstitious poker player I ever saw."

JOHN MITCHELL ILLUSTRATES.

President of the Miners' Union Tells a Good Story.

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, has been talking about the various methods in use at the mines for weighing coal. Of one method, a method of the past, he said:

"This method was long ago abandoned on account of its unfairness. It was most unfair. The fist and pound method, in fact, was scarcely worse.

"The fist and pound method originated, they say, in Scranton. A simple minded old lady ran a grocery store there. A man came in one day and asked for a pound of bacon. The old lady cut off a generous chunk of bacon, and then, going to weigh it, found that she had mislaid her pound weight somewhere.

"The man, seeing that there was about two pounds in the chunk cut off, said, hastily:

"Never mind. My fist weighs a pound."

"And he put the bacon on one side of the scales and his fist on the other. The two, of course, just balanced.

"It looks kind o' large for a pound, don't it?" asked the old lady, as she wrapped the bacon up.

"It does look large," said the man, as he tucked the meat under his arm. "Still—"

"But just then the old lady found her pound weight.

"Ah," she said, in a relieved voice, "now we can prove this business. Put it on here again."

"But the man wisely refrained from putting the bacon on the scales to be tested. He put on his fist again instead. And his fist, you may be sure, just balanced the pound weight.

"The old lady was much pleased.

"Well done," she said; "and here's a couple o' red herrin' for yer skill and honesty."—N. Y. Sun.

legal proceedings in Lincoln's Inn Old hall, which is a most appropriate place for such an inquiry. For in its long existence—it was built just 300 years ago—its walls have echoed to the story of many family secrets. For about 100 years it was used as the lord chancellor's court and here was heard about 50 years of the preliminary litigation in Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce, or to give it its proper name, the Jennings case, which arose out of the disposition of the property of William Jennings, who died in 1798. That Dickens did not exaggerate is proved by the fact that the case was not finally settled until 1878, long after the novelist's death, and a spasmodic attempt to revive it, happily nipped in the bud, was made in 1893 in an action against Earl Howe, the heir-in-law of old William Jennings.
